Mrs. Margaret Koizumi

Mrs. Margaret Koizumi, our school secretary, has now been with Saint Joseph College for twenty-five years, having entered its services in 1952 when Brother Aloysius Soden was Principal. During her first years, she and Mrs. Sakai, the then Second Grade homeroom teacher, were the only lay personnel at SJC. Because of her long employment here, she has been able to observe many transformations which have taken place. The most significant changes, she says, began in the early sixties; one being the employment of lay faculty in 1962.

DEDICATION

Saint Joseph College, along with the times, began to change internally and in administrative policies. The most noticeable change, she described, was that of discipline. In the pre-1962 days, discipline was strongly emphasized, the principal still using the 'stick' to chastise student misbehavior. Her dedication materialized, when SJC became incorporated as the Gakko Hojin in 1959, giving the school recognition from the Japanese government. SJC should be truly proud of Mrs. Koizumi, who loves the school, respects the Brothers and Faculty, and feels a close connection with the students.

Father Francis Gerber, the present High School Guidance Counselor, entered the Marianist Society as a Brother in 1933 and was ordained to the Priesthood in 1945. He has been at Saint Joseph College since 1948, except for an absence of three years from 1955 to 1958 due to ill-health he returned to the United States, he has not left JAPAN. During his time at S.J.C. he has been Principal three times: 1960-1961, 1970-1973, and 1975-1976. He has a deep affection for S.J.C. which he revealed in his devotion to his work and his guidance of the students. He compliments the students for their friendly nature and the cordial atmosphere which prevails at S.J.C.

The 'family' feeling of closeness and care, he believes, is quite evident among the students, faculty, parents, and alumni. As mentioned he is happy about the friendly atmosphere which exists among the students in their academic and social activities. The faculty, he feels, is also outstanding in its quality and in its cooperation with school policies. He especially believes that the generous spirit of the parents is tremendous, for without their cooperation the rehabilitation of S.J.C. over the years would have never materialized. He praises the Alumni Association without any obligation does so much for their Alma Mater. He desires that the present students make the very best of the opportunity offered to them and that they feel proud of and grateful to their Alma Mater to maintain the family spirit which makes S.J.C. so outstanding.

SENIORS ON THE RUN

Bro. McKee, S.M.

Bro. McKee, S.M., who served as principal, impressed the students from the outset by revealing his strong personality and determination to better Saint Joseph College. His past record at other schools and the achievements he has already made here, such as the Chaminade College Extension program, shows that he is an experienced and capable principal. He is impressed by the academic ability and the "JOE" spirit of the students, but acknowledges the seriousness of the problem of students speaking Japanese. This problem, he believes, is one of the major reasons the enrolment at S.J.C. has diminished. Numerous measures have been taken to correct it, but he feels that the students must take more individual responsibility in order to solve the problem completely. He would also like the students to be more responsible in other areas as well, such as in their behavior, appearance, and activities, both in and out of school. Maturity, he believes, comes from a person being completely responsible for his own actions. Under Bro. McKee's administration many changes for the better have occurred and many more are likely to come.

Dear Graduates of 1977,

You have been a considerable help to me in my search for the heart and soul of St. Joseph College. A school is not just brick and mortar, books and blackboards, announcements and bills. A school is people, all the people at any given time.

The graduates of 1977 evidenced a powerful school spirit learned by most over a twelve year span of attendance at St. Joseph College. From you I learned the sense of involvement and the enthusiasm with which you gave yourselves so generously to the needs and concerns of the school.

Your student government leader, Greg Branch, proposed a motto for the year: Togetherness. This has always been a goal of mine wherever I served as teacher or Principal. Bringing together students, parents, teachers and staff effecting a true communion is and will be my first goal.

A popular song begins with the words: "What the world needs now is love..." The ingredients to realize this goal are present in St. Joseph College. The mixture of nationalities and cultures provides a basis for mutual appreciation and understanding. St. Joseph is a gold mine of cultural riches, much of it still beneath the surface to be tapped by future classes.

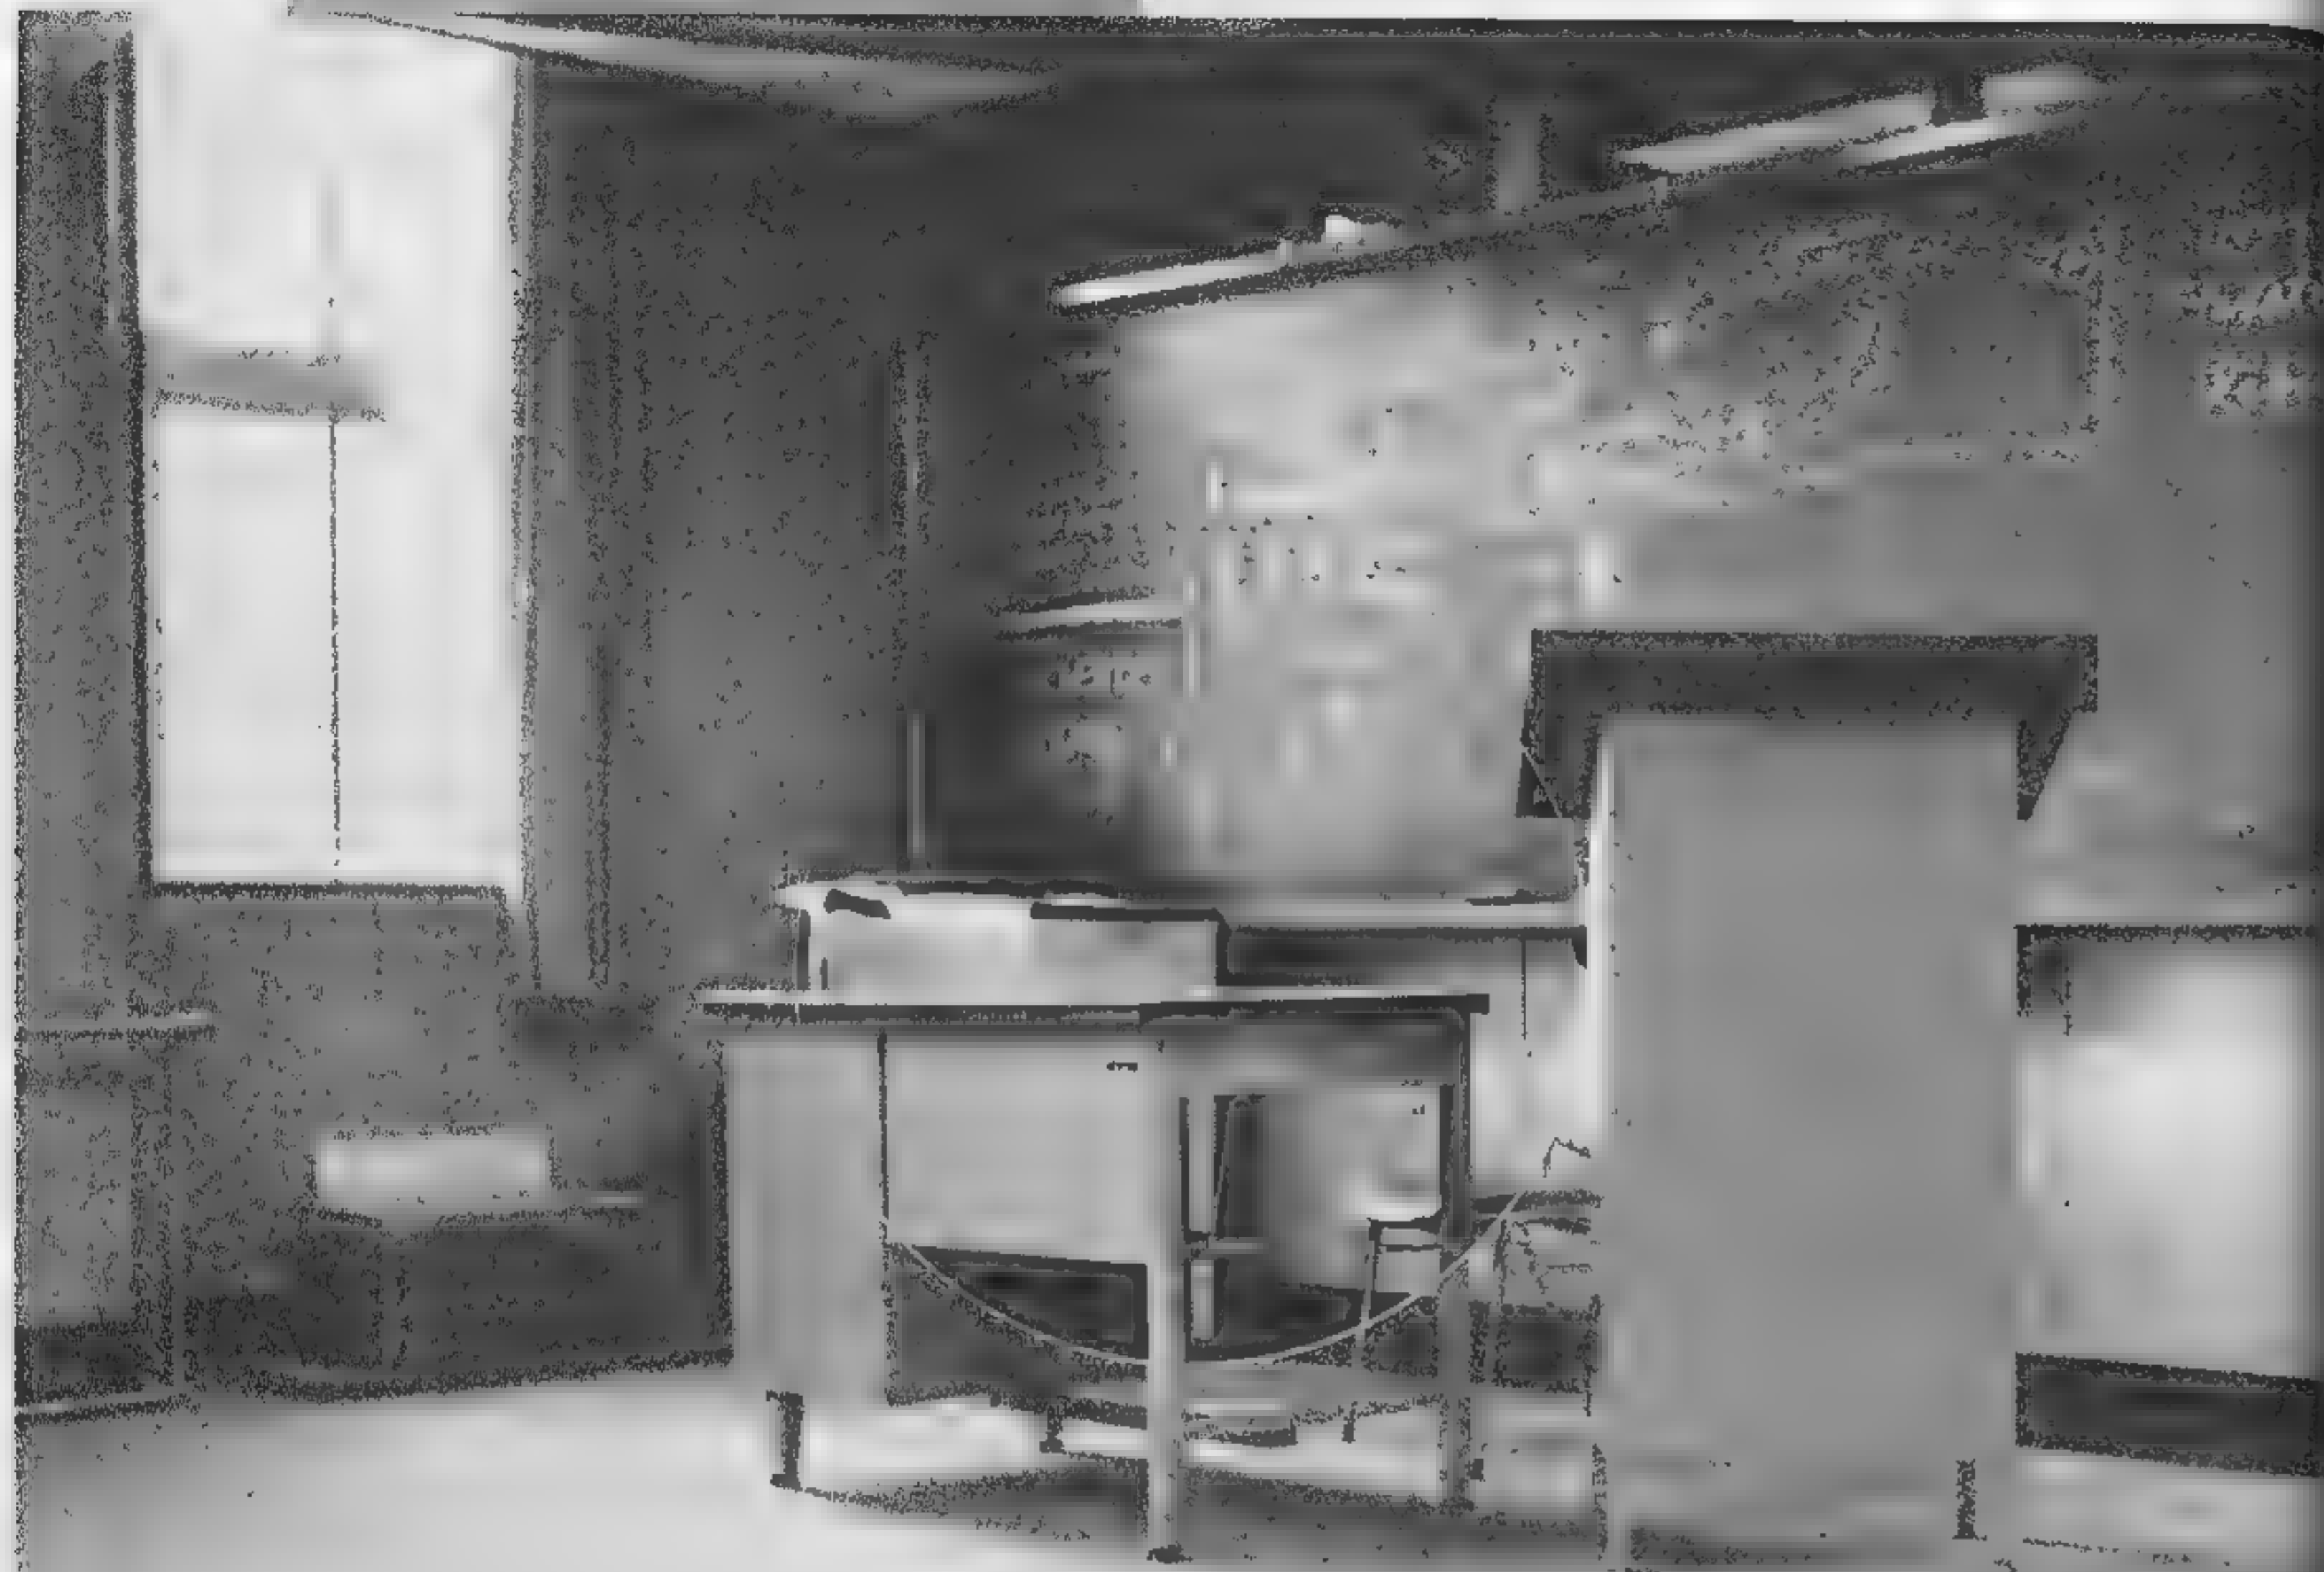

At St. Joseph College you discovered the ingredients of community: people of many backgrounds learning to live and work with one another. This is precisely the love the world needs now. All your lives share this treasure wherever you go.

God love you,

Donald C. McKee, S.M.

Brother Donald McKee, S.M.

WELFARE COMMITTEE

The Welfare Committee of 1977 was composed of fun-loving, hardworking, laborers unified behind the motto "Do Labor and Smile." Under the direction of Donald Benson, the committee sponsored a successful Bonfire and a four-night Talent Show. Though the work was hard and painstaking, the members enjoyed all of their work.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The Social Committee promotes extra curricula activities in which students can partake in a friendly and informal atmosphere. During the year many dances were held, most of which were planned with the co-operation and participation of our neighboring schools. This allowed for all the local students to become acquainted under pleasant and enjoyable circumstances.

SODALITY CLUB

The Sodality Club is traditionally charity oriented and dedicated to promoting friendship. Although it was originally a Catholic youth organization, the majority of its members today are non-Christians. The club provides a fine choir for its monthly mass and for other religious events. Each year it co-sponsors, along with the Interact Club, a Christmas party for a local orphanage. Other events include an excursion to Gotemba, where everyone can enjoy a good time with his fellow students.

THE CHRONICLE

The student newspaper, the Chronicle, had a new moderator this year. Under the guidance of Bro. Grisez, S.M., the newspaper provided the student body with up-to-date news about the school and the surrounding community. The Chronicle faced numerous problems and difficulties during the year but in the end managed to produce a well written and informative issue each time.

Education commences at the mother's knee, and every word spoken within the hearsay of little children tends toward the formation of character.

THE EDITING STAFF

Editor in Chief

Paul Shida- Unorganized, uncoordinated, and understanding are the three words which best describe "Edite-kun". The chief man behind this book, Paul spent HOURS planning, designing, and pouring over the many problems which came up during the long year it took to put the Forward of '77 together. He didn't know how he did it, nor does his staff, but the book was published on time and in one piece!! From all of us to him.....ARIGATO and OTSUKARESAN.

Head Copy Writer

John Holiano- John was distinguished from the other staff as being the innocent by-stander who deterred the process by not having things done in time. From time to time, he would unexpectedly pop up in the staff room just to see how others were painfully working while he sat down and listened to FEN radio. With all of his peculiar mannerisms and interests, he did manage to get all of his work done, even though it was ages late!

Business Coordinator

Donald Chen- The "bus-man" of our staff, Donald was very reluctant when it came time to collect ads until he came to the sudden realization that he was far behind schedule. Furthermore, his absent-mindedness added additional conflicts and as a result drove the half-crazy editor into total insanity. However, in the end he did manage to get all of his work done, in one form or another.

Assistant Editor

Peter Hu- As co-editor, he took charge of most of the editor's jobs. In fact, he virtually impeached the editor by organizing most of the photos and proofreading the layout sheets. He was the most pain in the you-know-what among the staff when the editor failed to meet deadlines. Anyway, his distorted views toward lay-out continually harassed the editor but somehow or the other, he managed to crank out half of the designs.

Art Director

Felix Pang- As his facial expression suggests, his mind was filled with apples and eggs (sometimes with girls) which didn't help the lay-out staff at all. To be exact, he never seemed to be wide awake when he was supposed to be. At times, however, he suddenly became a proficient lay-out artist and figured out plans in split seconds while he was still half asleep!

Finance Manager

Sung Ning- For some unknown reason, Sung Ning was very fond of playing hide-n-seek when it came time for him to go to work. This was probably due to his natural tendency to chase girls around (through this fact has not been scientifically proven yet, it is thought to be very accurate). In any case, he reserved a portion of his mind to think about coordinating the budget of the 1977 Forward!!

Photo Director

Hiroshi Tamago- This year, the prince of "Joshi-sho" and "Futaba", better known as Tama, showed his complete inability in the art of photography by taking countless "batsu" pictures. This was because it was believed that all he knew about a camera was to press the shutter at the wrong time! Nevertheless, Tamamoto was head photographer for this project and as you can see he did his job.

Photo Producer

Fumitada Mazorogi- Mizorogi was the assistant photographer who almost had his head chopped off by the staff for destroying several precious rolls of film. According to informed sources, he found pleasure in torturing others by using sadistic methods such as "oshiri-pen-pen" and "silent lynch". In anycase, he agreed to develop some photos (maybe around 1500 or so) just to have his name mentioned in this section!

Copy Writer

Katchaman- This intellectual farmer from Chiba was always wondering why he ever joined our staff. He was noted for his mean looks whenever he was asked to do some writing. The other members of the staff took for granted that he was joking and ignored his wild cries of "Kitane-yo" and "An mari da yo". He did however prove to be a great asset to the Literary Editor (who was a 'dame na otoko').

Copy Typist

Joseph Maadie- Whenever Madingo came into the staff room all you could see was a walking pile of paper with a small portable typewriter slung over its shoulder!!! He was the chief typist for the Forward and did a commendable job in getting all of his work in on time. The Literary Editor was especially grateful for his exactness as he served well as a right hand man.

Lay-outer

Bentaro- The queer left hand man of Felix, Bentaro was always pondering over something that was trifle and never seemed to be quite concentrated on his lay-out design. Contrary to his behaviors, his results clearly showed his talents even though he spent years drawing a single line on a lay-out sheet.

Lay-outer

Paul Chang- Paul's philosophical approach to lay-out puzzled both himself and the staff many a time. As the weird right hand man of Felix, he never bothered to wake his boss and kept working diligently at his work. Despite his heavy after-school schedule, he showed up daily in the staff room asking for some type of work to keep him busy.

Ad Artist

Yamada Tokoya- When Takuya was in the staff room, one never felt quite secure until he sat down to work! Certainly he was NOT the kind who would leave you alone if he wasn't busy. Well, he did do a lot of work for the ads section and contributed many of his funny caricatures. He was a mean one and it was really amazing that no one was bitten, scratched, or beaten... just kidding, of course.

Ad Artist

Anchan Eymard-Anchan was the 'untouchable' of the Forward staff as he was very liberal and independent (similar to the Literary Editor). It was very hard to get hold of him long enough to get him really working on the job. The facts are not known how he managed to do it, but when the time came for the required portion of the book to be completed, there it was on the editor's desk all ready to go to the printer... a truly 'wonder boy'.

Guilty Bystander

Syed Nabi- Acting just like a little angel, Nabingo tip-toed merrily into the staff room just to have his share of the French Bread. In fact, he didn't make his presence known for a whole quarter. The other staff members didn't mind because this meant that they got more bread. Regardless, his many artistic contributions were greatly appreciated.

Advisory Personnel

What was the year 1977 to us all? Was it a year long figment of our imagination? Or did it consist of life's ups and downs? In every respect, this year was more than all these for it was organized under the theme TOGETHERNESS.

New leaderships emerged and consolidated the coming school year's hopes. Followers actively participated in each event by offering their cooperation and amounts of interests. Together we all pursued the real definition of the theme. Each individual perhaps had their own interpretation of this theme but we knew that all we cared for was that this word "Togetherness" meant a driving force that mends all gaps and misunderstandings.

Backed up by this wind of Togetherness, the ship SJC staggered and struggled to proceed step by step over the waves of life. The scent of wind belong to us forever, like a clock that stopped, it shall remain in our memories. If there is anything you'll miss in the future, recall the world of Forward '77 Togetherness.
